Dear Ms. Atwater,

We are really excited / to perform at the school festival.

Our tap dance team members / have been practicing a lot / since last April.

And now, / there are only two months left / for the show.

Some of our members want / to get some extra practice in the evening, / but the room that we use now / is only open / during the afternoon.

So, / I am wondering / if there is another room that we could use / for practice in the evening.

Thank you for helping us / get ready / for our performance.

Carl watched / the airport employee / prepare to speak into the microphone.

“Attention, / ladies and gentlemen, / I’m sorry to announce / that Flight 524 will be delayed / another four hours,” / the employee said.

Carl rolled / his eyes.

He and his family had waited / at the airport / all day.

He had eaten, / read his book, / played on his phone, / and even watched a movie.

Carl didn’t know / what to do.

His parents were both sleeping, / so he couldn’t even talk to them.

He sighed / and stared at the clock.

Carl wished / the time would go faster.

Dear students, /

The final day of the school year / is coming soon.

The high school library is happy / that so many students borrowed books this year.

As you are aware, / the library will update all the book lists / during winter vacation.

To start the project properly, / we have to make sure / that we have all of our books.

Therefore, / we would like to ask you / to return all borrowed books / before the last day of November.

As always, / you can return your books / at the front desk / or at the drop box / outside the library entrance.

Thank you / for your cooperation.

Iris smiled / from ear to ear / as she quickly walked down / the school hallway.

Today / was the day.

The school was announcing / the actors / for the new play.

Iris had done so well / in her audition, / so she was sure / she would get the part / of the main character. / “There it is!” / she said.

The name sheet was taped / to the wall, / and a crowd was gathered / around it.

“I can’t wait to see / the list!”

But / when Iris finally looked at it, / she felt / her stomach drop.

Her name / wasn’t there.

She hadn’t gotten / the part.

Iris backed away / and tried to hold in her tears.
